

RELATIVE CLAUSE:

We use relative clauses to give additional information about something without starting another sentence. By combining sentences with a relative clause, your text becomes more fluent and you can avoid repeating certain words.

Relative clauses or relative clauses are those that act as a subordinate to a main clause, adding more information about a thing or person that had already been mentioned before.

We use relative clauses to add information about the person or thing we are talking about and not repeat data as the subject.

WHO: subject or object pronoun for people

WHICH: subject or object pronoun for animals and things

WHERE: refers to a place

WHOSE: possession for people animals and things

WHEN: refers to a time expresión

Examples:

I told you about the woman who lives next door.

Do you see the cat which is lying on the roof?

the place where we met him

Do you know the boy whose mother is a nurse?

the day when we met him

<https://www.ego4u.com/en/cram-up/grammar/relative-clauses>

<https://whatsup.es/blog/relative-clauses-who-which-whose-or-that>

<https://www.curso-ingles.com/>